

BRAINSTORMING

Problems

- There are too many housing options to choose from
- It's unsafe to meet strangers you know nothing about (both landlords and roommates)
- Many leasing offices provide false expectations
- There are limited options to find potential roommates
- Lack of knowledge regarding surrounding neighborhoods
- Abundance of deceptive behavior/scam related to housing
- Hard to find ideal roommate match with common values and similar budget
- Elevated application fees → cannot apply to too many places
- Difficult to navigate contract payment logistics
- Tough to adapt to a new city without knowing anyone

Alternatives

- Finding available apartment listings on facebook
- Gathering advice from users on Reddit
- Word-of-mouth
- Physically visiting the leasing offices
- Taking a shot in the dark with Bumble friends in hopes of finding suitable roommate
- Stalking the commercial Instagram accounts of each residential complex
- Living on campus with strict guidelines and restrictions
- Attending university-affiliated housing fairs
- Rushing a fraternity/sorority and living on frat row/sorority row
- Living with family

Solutions

Brainstorming

Process

We began with the persona interview to get an idea of what the problem was. Based on the interview, we started looking for real-world evidence of the problem and how multiple other students tried to look for housing. We looked at posts on the /r/UFL subreddit, some Facebook groups, and other chats with students. We then started listing the problems and alternatives for this issue and drew up some ideas to tackle the problems. These ideas were put in a brainstorm diagram and it became the basis for our discovery.
